Red Wave sweeps Republicans into office

25% punched straight ticket for GOP

BY BOB DEMAREE

Jefferson County Republicans were talking about the power of the Red Wave after they dominated Tuesday's general election with 25% of the voters pulling a straight GOP lever.

"When you see the trends happening in that regard, there's no recovering that," said Madison Mayor Bob Courtney, a Republican who will mostly likely seek a second term next year.

"You can't fight it, you can't beat it; that's what you call Red Wave. They're trying to classify that, and say there is no Red Wave, but there is," said Jefferson County Republican Party Chair Pam Crozier.

With 10,003 residents voting in Tuesday's election, 2,529 of that total voted a straight Republican ticket compared to just 850 voting straight Democrat. Overall voter turnout was 45.3%, down from four years ago when 54.1% went to the polls.

Jefferson County Prosecutor David Sutter was the lone Democrat elected in a county-wide race and noted he was fortunate to be running unopposed. "It would have been very tough to overcome that," Sutter said, adding he appreciates the voter's trust and support.

Sheriff candidate Tim Davis, the only other Democrat seeking county-wide office, was among those gathered Tuesday evening at the Spencer J. Schnaitter Jefferson County Democrat Headquarters on Main Street in Madison. He said strong Republican straight party voting was a big factor in his loss to Ben Flint. "You can't overcome a 2,500 straight ticket vote," Davis said. "You can't do it — not in this county."

Davis said it has become difficult for Democrats to compete in Jefferson County. "We try to (challenge the Republicans) but it's hard to turn people out," he said, noting the GOP now owns a position of strength that Democrats once held. "Twenty years ago this place was hopping. Heaven sakes you couldn't get in the door — you couldn't even get to the door. I can remember when I was a kid going out to the fairgrounds when the Democratic party had a fish fry and you couldn't get near that place at 4 o'clock due to the people and now it's gone and the party is in a turmoil."

The strength of the Republicans gave confidence to Dwayne May in his first run for office for County Council District 4. "I really felt I was going to get swept in with the Red Wave to be honest with you," he said, after

Flint wins sheriff's race by 2-1 landslide

BY BOB DEMAREE

Jefferson County Sheriff candidates Ben Flint and Tim Davis both worked the campaign trail hard— they were at about every event that's taken place in Jefferson County over the last few months — and in the end Flint rode that momentum and a wave of Republican support overall to a big 2-1 win on election day.

Flint produced a convincing 6,016 to 3,820 victory, garnering 61.16% of the vote while Davis, the Democrat, received 38.84%.

"It was a tremendous effort on both of our parts," said Flint, who said he anticipated a closer race "because of the amount of effort that was put forth by my opponent, and he's a very well liked individual in the community. We both worked diligently. I'm thankful the community entrusted me with their votes to be the next sheriff of Jefferson County."

But Flint said he thought the difference was his "service to the country, to the community, law enforcement training and knowledge is going to lead to a more safe, secure and transparent Jefferson County."

"Congratulations to Ben. I hope the people are satisfied," said Davis. "Ben is a friend of mine. I worked with him at the sheriff's office for six years. Good luck to him. I hope he can handle the job. If he follows through on what he said he would do, he will be all right — and make his own decisions. He needs to make his own decisions."

Jefferson County Sheriff-elect Ben Flint (right) celebrates with Laura Pickel at the Republican Party's post election gathering Tuesday night at the Eagle Cotton Mill Fairfield Inn & Suites by Marriott in downtown Madison. Pickel is a current sheriff's deputy whom Flint, a landslide winner over Democrat Tim Davis, named as his future chief deputy last week.

During the last few months Flint has been campaigning hard for the office, and he said now he's "going to take a little breather and spend time with the family" and then "start prepping so I can hit the ground running Jan. 1."

As the new sheriff, Flint will be the one overseeing the new Jefferson County Sheriff's Office and Criminal Justice Center when it opens next year. "I've already been in the pre-planning stages trying to figure out what be the most effective and efficient transition will be."

For Davis, this was his second run for sheriff after losing in 2018 by 680 votes to outgoing incumbent Dave Thomas, who Flint defeated in the primary. Davis said he won't be seeking office again. "This was it. I've ran twice and my political days are over. I'm 64 years old and I'm looking for peace and quiet."

Jefferson County Republican Chair Pam Crozier noted that both Flint and Davis are "very likable" but Flint was "more qualified."

"I think the voters saw that," said Crozier, noting that Flint has prepared to be sheriff through his dedication to law enforcement. "Ben walks it, he breathes it, he lives it, and that's why he was the better candidate."

BPWS to recommend water project bids

BY BOB DEMAREE

Madison's Board of Public Works and Safety on Monday approved three bids for water utility infrastructure improvements to be recommended to city council at close to what the city's engineers estimated for those projects.

"Overall, as the actual scope goes, we're right at the number we need be at within about $100,000," said Rob Bellucci, project manager for Commonwealth Engineers. "I was pleased with our bids considering the overall volatility of the construction market." Bids for two divisions of the project came in lower than the engineer estimate with one division coming in higher.

The $13 million project is divided into three parts — Division A for supply and treatment improvements at the city's existing water treatment facilities and booster pump stations, Division B for rehabilitation of the city's six water storage tanks and Division C for water main replacements in the distribution system throughout the city.

Dave O'Mara Contractor Inc. submitted the lowest bid for Division A at $4,423,000 for the base bid and $545,000 for a mandatory alternate — a total of $4,968,000. However, in accepting two of the three alternates the O'Mara bid is $4,543,000. That was higher than the engineers' estimated base bid of $3,464,816 and alternate bid of $399,000. Bellucci said engineers expected the bid for Division A could be higher

Classical violin concert set for Sunday

The Madison Performing Arts Foundation is bringing another stellar classical music performance to Madison at 7 p.m. on Sunday, Nov. 13, at the Jefferson County Historical Center (615 W. First Street, behind the old train station.) This time the featured artist is Dr. Wil Herzog, a violin virtuoso and music teaching innovator.

CHARLIE ROHLFING
CHARLIE'S BEAT

Doing my research for this article, I came across this on his website: "Part violinist, part pedagogue and part investigator, Dr. William Herzog has devoted his career to exploring the intersection between the communicative power of music and the science of learning."

So of course I had to look up "pedagogue." Turns out, pedagogy is the study of how knowledge and skills are imparted in an educational context. In Dr. Herzog's words, "I do a lot of thinking about teaching, reading about teaching, and teaching as an art form.

"I have this belief," continues Herzog, "that when classical music is done from memory, it enhances the virtuoso aspect and spontaneity of the performance. The expressiveness and creativity are heightened. And besides, playing from memory is a tradition among classical musicians."

Dr. Herzog is professor of violin and music at Northern Kentucky University, having moved to the region (from Toronto) to attend IU and Northwestern. His many young students at the University have been a fertile testing ground for his innovative teaching methods.

"I've been developing a process for learning and memorizing music in a unique way. I've found that because music has patterns and phrases and meaning, it really lends itself to internalizing and memorization.

"By synthesizing psychological research on mental practice and memorization with more than a decade of pedagogical experience, I've distilled the method down to a 5-step process, which I've been sharing in various academic forums and conferences for the last several years.

"It's a process I'll be putting into practice when I come to Madison on November 13th. We're doing several amazing pieces of music, and all but one I'll be doing from memory. I think you'll be able to see what I'm talking about in the performance, the way I'm able to focus more on the intent of the piece and what I want it to express.

"I'm very excited to have Starla Raley joining me on piano accompaniment. We've had some really great practices, and it's come together nicely.

"One of the pieces I'm particularly excited about is The Earl King, based on a poem by Goethe, composed by Shubert and arranged by Heinrich Ernst. It's widely considered to be one of the most difficult violin pieces ever composed.

"Sunday's show will be like a musical buffet. Most of the pieces are shorter, delicate tastes of exquisite music. And all the pieces feature so much beauty and emotional depth. I think it's going to be outstanding, and I invite everyone who loves great music to come out and share it with us."

than estimates "given of the nature of the work." He said the construction market has been "pretty volatile" and Division A involves items where there has been increased pricing.

MW Cole Construction submitted the lowest of six bids for Division B at $1,607,500, which was well lower than the engineers' estimated base bid of $2,886,358.

Brackney Inc. had the lowest bid for Division C at $4,837,175 for the base bid. The bid was also well below the engineers' base bid estimate of $5,997,407.60.

Brian Jackson, the city's utility manager, noted a pre-closing is set for Thursday with a final closing on Nov. 18 for approval of the $12 million State Revolving Fund Loan. "Once that's approved then we can go ahead with the project because we will then have the money," he said.

Jackson said the overall project will cost about $13 million, which includes engineering and accounting fees over and above the $10,987,675 in construction costs. Of that total, Jefferson County Commissioners and Council appropriated $1 million from its American Rescue Plan funds, resulting in $12 million to be financed with the state loan.

Madison Mayor Bob Courtney said he is ready for the work to get started but lamented the amount of construction local residents and businesses will have to put up with in the coming months. "I'll apologize in advance because there's going to be a lot construction work next year going on around the community," he said.

Jackson also provided an update on an agreement with the Indiana Department of Transportation for a highway utility agreement for relocating a water line while INDOT is replacing a culvert over a tributary to Deans Branch at State Road 7 near Wells Drive. He said the city has waterlines that run along State Road 7 in the state right of way, making the city responsible for taking them out and replacing then at a cost of about $45,6000.

Hot Tip of the Week

Before I get into what's happening this coming weekend, a word about last weekend. OMG! (Is OMG a word, or is that 3 words?) The third annual MadHop Music Fest was a rip-roaring success, selling out all tickets and blowing the music-lovin' minds of every attendee. You can go ahead and mark your calendar for next year, Nov. 4, 2023, because it will be bigger and bwwetter than ever. As for this coming weekend, I see two of my favorite things coming together on Saturday night ... Thomas Family Winery and Tim Brickley and his band. I'll be there with bells on. And pay special attention to what Joe Breeck is doing at Rivertown Grill on Jefferson Street across from the courthouse. He is featuring live music five nights a week, including Sundays. Tell him a big "Thanks Joe" if you see him.

TODAY IN HISTORY

TODAY'S HIGHLIGHT IN HISTORY:

On Nov. 10, 1775, the U.S. Marines were organized under authority of the Continental Congress.

ON THIS DATE:

In 1871, journalist-explorer Henry M. Stanley found Scottish missionary David Livingstone, who had not been heard from for years, near Lake Tanganyika in central Africa.

In 1919, the American Legion opened its first national convention in Minneapolis.

In 1928, Hirohito (hee-roh-hee-toh) was enthroned as Emperor of Japan.

In 1944, during World War II, the ammunition ship USS Mount Hood (AE-11) exploded while moored at the Manus Naval Base in the Admiralty Islands in the South Pacific, leaving 45 confirmed dead and 327 missing and presumed dead.

In 1951, customer-dialed long-distance telephone service began as Mayor M. Leslie Denning of Englewood, New Jersey, called Alameda, California, Mayor Frank Osborne without operator assistance.

In 1954, the U.S. Marine Corps Memorial, depicting the raising of the American flag on Iwo Jima in 1945, was dedicated by President Dwight D. Eisenhower in Arlington, Virginia.

In 1969, the children's educational program "Sesame Street" made its debut on National Educational Television (later PBS).

In 1975, the U.N. General Assembly approved a resolution equating Zionism with racism (the world body repealed the resolution in Dec. 1991).

In 1982, the newly finished Vietnam Veterans Memorial was opened to its first visitors in Washington, D.C., three days before its dedication. Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev died at age 75.

In 2005, Ellen Johnson-Sirleaf, a former finance minister of Liberia, claimed victory in the country's presidential election.

In 2018, President Donald Trump, in France to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the end of World War I, canceled a visit to a cemetery east of Paris where Americans killed in that war are buried; rainy weather had grounded the presidential helicopter. Authorities in Northern California said 14 additional bodies had been found in the ruins from a fire that virtually destroyed the town of Paradise.

Ten years ago: Two people were killed when a powerful gas explosion rocked an Indianapolis neighborhood, damaging or destroying more than 80 homes. (Five people were later convicted of charges in connection with the blast, which prosecutors said stemmed from a plot to collect insurance money.)

Five years ago: Facing allegations of sexual misconduct, comedian Louis C.K. said the harassment claims by five women that were detailed in a New York Times report were true, and he expressed remorse for using his influence "irresponsibly." The National Republican Senatorial committee ended its fundraising agreement with Alabama Senate candidate Roy Moore in light of allegations of sexual contact with a teenager decades earlier. President Donald Trump arrived in Vietnam to attend an international economic summit, telling CEOs on the sidelines of the summit, "We are not going to let the United States be taken advantage of anymore."

One year ago: Kyle Rittenhouse took the stand in his murder trial, testifying that he was under attack and acting in self-defense when he shot and killed two men and wounded a third during a turbulent night of street protests in Kenosha, Wisconsin. (Rittenhouse would be acquitted of all charges.) A judge in Michigan approved a $626 million settlement for Flint residents and others who were exposed to lead-contaminated water; most of the money would come from the state. A New Jersey gym owner, Scott Fairlamb, who punched a police officer during the Jan. 6 attack on the U.S. Capitol, was sentenced to more than three years in prison. The government said prices for U.S. consumers jumped 6.2% in October compared with a year earlier, leaving families facing their highest inflation rate since 1990.

TODAY IN HISTORY

TODAY'S HIGHLIGHT IN HISTORY:

On Nov. 11, 1918, fighting in World War I ended as the Allies and Germany signed an armistice in the Forest of Compiegne.

ON THIS DATE:

In 1620, 41 Pilgrims aboard the Mayflower, anchored off Massachusetts, signed a compact calling for a "body politick."

In 1831, former slave Nat Turner, who'd led a slave uprising, was executed in Jerusalem, Virginia.

In 1921, the remains of an unidentified American service member were interred in a Tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington National Cemetery in a ceremony presided over by President Warren G. Harding.

In 1938, Irish-born cook Mary Mallon, who'd gained notoriety as the disease-carrying "Typhoid Mary" blamed for the deaths of three people, died on North Brother Island in New York's East River at age 69 after 23 years of mandatory quarantine.

In 1942, during World War II, Germany completed its occupation of France.

In 1966, Gemini 12 blasted off on a four-day mission with astronauts James A. Lovell and Edwin "Buzz" Aldrin Jr. aboard; it was the tenth and final flight of NASA's Gemini program.

In 1972, the U.S. Army turned over its base at Long Binh to the South Vietnamese, symbolizing the end of direct U.S. military involvement in the Vietnam War.

In 1987, following the failure of two Supreme Court nominations, President Ronald Reagan announced his choice of Judge Anthony M. Kennedy, who went on to win confirmation.

In 1992, the Church of England voted to ordain women as priests.

In 1998, President Bill Clinton ordered warships, planes and troops to the Persian Gulf as he laid out his case for a possible attack on Iraq. Iraq, meanwhile, showed no sign of backing down from its refusal to deal with U.N. weapons inspectors.

In 2004, Palestinians at home and abroad wept, waved flags and burned tires in an eruption of grief at news of the death of Yasser Arafat in Paris at age 75.

In 2020, Georgia's secretary of state announced an audit of presidential election results that he said would be done with a full hand tally of ballots because the margin was so tight; President-elect Joe Biden led President Donald Trump by about 14,000 votes out of nearly 5 million votes counted in the state. (The audit would affirm Biden's win.) Texas became the first state with more than 1 million confirmed COVID-19 cases.

Ten years ago: President Barack Obama laid a wreath at the Tomb of the Unknowns at Arlington National Cemetery and said the Sept. 11 generation had "written one of the greatest chapters" in the country's military service, toppling a dictator and battling an insurgency in Iraq, pushing back the Taliban in Afghanistan and decimating al-Qaida's leadership.

Five years ago: The annual Pacific Rim summit stuck to its tradition of promoting free trade and closer regional ties, shrugging off the "America First" approach that was brought to the summit by President Donald Trump. After talking with Russian President Vladimir Putin on the sidelines of the summit, Trump told reporters that Putin had again insisted that Moscow had not interfered in the 2016 U.S. elections, and Trump said he believed Putin was sincere in making that claim; he accused Democrats of trying to sabotage relations between Washington and Moscow.

One year ago: Facing a surge in coronavirus infections that threatened to overwhelm Colorado hospitals, Gov. Jared Polis defied federal guidance on COVID-19 booster shots by issuing an order allowing all state residents 18 and older to get them. President Joe Biden saluted the nation's military veterans as "the spine of America" as he marked his first Veterans Day as president in a wreath-laying ceremony at Arlington National Cemetery. A spokesman for his foundation confirmed that F.W. de Klerk, South Africa's last apartheid leader, who shared the Nobel Peace Prize with Nelson Mandela and oversaw the end of the country's white minority rule, had died at 85.

Today's Birthdays: Country singer Narvel Felts is 84. Former Sen. Barbara Boxer, D-Calif., is 82. Americana roots singer/songwriter Chris Smither is 78. SWEEPS garnering 68.3% of the vote in his win over Democrat John Hutchinson to join three Republican incumbents reelected to County Council.

May will be replacing longtime council member Judy Smith who decided not to seek reelection. "If I'm half the Council person that she's been over the last 17 years then I will be doing well because she's served Jefferson County very well," May said. " I look forward to serving the people of the fourth district. I feel like I just gained 8,000 neighbors."

Incumbent Ray Denning defeated Libertarian Ronald Hoeferkamp in Council District 1 with 86.5% of the vote. "The last eight years our Council has worked very well together, and I think people have recognized that," said Denning.

Incumbent Ray Black Jr. defeated Thomas Ray Sedam Sr. in Council District 3 with 67% of the vote. "I appreciate the voters support. By God's grace, I'm here running because I was on death's door about two years ago" with Idiopathic Pulmonary Fibrosis but after a double lung transplant he was able to seek and be reelected to a second term. "My dad was a two-time County Council member, and that's what I was hoping to do to be a two-time County Council member myself, and I was able to achieve that."

Incumbent Chris Shelton ran unopposed in District 2 for his third term after initially being elected through caucus in September of 2013. "I'm very thankful to be on Council again," he said. "I feel as a Council we've been very successful in maintaining a good budget and making sure the obligations of the county are taken care of."

More evidence to the strength of county Republicans was the defeat of three township trustee seats that had long been held by Democrats.

In Republican Township, Fred Stilwell had been the township trustee since 1991, but lost by 64 votes Tuesday to Republican Angie Sims. In Smyrna Township, Tara Cash was first elected trustee in 2006 but lost by 33 votes Tuesday to Republican Lawrence Mikesell. In Saluda Township, incumbent Yancy York lost to Republican Cory Thomas by 48 votes. York was first elected in 2018 but his mother-in-law, Ruby Taylor-Wehner, had served two terms as a Democrat before that, and other Democrats had served in the position prior to that.

Crozier noted that when candidates began filing in January, "we looked in each area where that township is, and we looked for people we knew that represented the Republican party, and went and asked if they would step up and represent that township. And we didn't have to ask very hard, and they said 'Yes.' I don't think anyone had been asked, and we did."

Republicans now have eight of the 10 township trustee positions with the only two Democrat trustees being Shannon Hamilton in Graham Township and Lucy Anderson in Hanover Township — both who were unopposed on Tuesday.

In Madison Township, incumbent Republican Kevin Fry won over Democrat Christian Bowyer with 67.6% of the vote. Other newly elected Republican township trustees who were unopposed include Doug Harrell in Lancaster Township, Chad Wehner in Milton Township, Andy Crozier in Monroe Township and David Herring in Shelby Township.

Republicans also took several county offices because there was no Democrat opposition including Tabatha Eblen for Circuit Court Clerk, Heather Huff for County Auditor, Amanda Creech for County Assessor and Ron Lee for County Commissioner Upper District.

Jefferson Count also supported all Republican statewide, giving GOP candidates sizeable margins including Diego Morales for secretary of state, Tera Klutz for state auditor and Daniel Elliott for state treasurer, along with Todd Young for US Senator over challenger Thomas McDermott. Additionally, the county went for Republican Erin Houchin over Democrat Matt Fyfe for the 9th District Congressional seat.

Republicans won two Hanover offices with Coby Cloud running unopposed for clerk-treasurer and Benjamin Sommer defeating Democrat Cree Green for Council District 2.

Democrats, however, will continue to have a strong presence on Hanover Town Council with Kenny Garrett, an incumbent, and Tim Buxton, a newcomer, winning the two council at-large positions by outpolling Republican Candice Goens. Also, Democrat incumbents Treva Shelton in District 1 and Debbie Kroger in District 3 were unopposed and will be back on the council.

Hanover Township Board, which was previously all Democrat, now has a Republican with Greg Sanders being the top vote-getter on the three-member board to join Democrat incumbents Laura Chitwood and Melvin Adams with incumbent Ronald Anderson falling short.

Meanwhile, Madison Township Board, previously all Republican, will now be joined by Democrat Marilyn Hutchinson who finished third behind Myron Eaglin and Jeff Rampy. Edward Stigall Jr., a Democrat, was the fourth place candidate for the board, failing to make the top three.

Madison coach Adam Dennis stomps along the sidelines after a Cubs turnover. However, the Cubs didn't give their first-year coach many reasons to be upset overall, beating Lawrenceburg 51-37 at home on Tuesday.

Defense carries Madison to win over Lawrenceburg

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

With 19 turnovers and multiple misses at the basket, Madison's offense wasn't exactly in mid-season form. But thanks to a suffocating defense and dominate play in the paint, it didn't need to be.

Madison's defense forced 22 turnovers and the Cubs pulled away in the second half to knock off Lawrenceburg 51-37 in their home opener on Tuesday.

The Cubs limited Lawrenceburg to under 20 points in each half and contested every shot.

That defensive intensity helped overcome an offense that took two and a half quarters to find its footing.

"Today it was an e-learning day for us today and it's just different when they're home on a weekday," said first-year Madison coach Adam Dennis, who picked up his first win with the program. "On Saturday night I thought our girls did a really good job of fighting in a really tough environment and and overcoming a lot of adversity and tonight we kind of had to overcome ourselves. Our energy wasn't the same. We just didn't feel like we were us."

Madison (1-1) missed four layups in the game's first four minutes and found themselves trailing 7-6 before a Cam Cahall basket at the buzzer gave the Cubs a lead at the end of the first quarter. Madison played better in the second quarter but still trailed 18-17 at halftime.

Defense kept the Cubs in the game in the first half and while Dennis considered switching schemes during the break, he decided to stand pat and that paid off when Madison finally started finding the net.

Madison freshman Juliana Davis scored a game- and career-high 12 points in the Cubs' 51-37 win over Lawrenceburg on Tuesday.

Breck Ralston drained the second of her three 3-pointers in the game to give Madison the lead for good late in the third quarter and back-to-back buckets from freshman Juliana Davis and Alaina Kelley sent the Cubs into the final quarter leading 33-28.

Aubrey LaBazzo scored early in the fourth to pull Lawrenceburg (0-1) to within three but Madison answered with an 11-0 run to take a 44-30 lead and blow open the game. Cadence Traylor bookended the run with 3-pointers and Ralston hit her third trey with Davis adding a basket in the middle.

Lawrenceburg mounted a mini 7-0 run to pull within 44-37 with 1:28 to go but it proved to be the Tigers' final points of the game. Madison cashed in 7-of-9 from the foul line down the stretch — 5-of-6 from Cahall — to ice the win.

"Our first four weeks of practice had been really good. So if you practice well, you're bound to play well and the kids as a whole are practicing well," Dennis said. "So when they get their time, when they get their opportunity, they're playing well. And that's a credit to them and who they are and how serious they take things."

Davis scored a game- and career-high 12 points to lead Madison while veterans Cahall and Ralston scored 11 points each. Kelley finished with nine points and Traylor added eight.

Brooklyn Craig led Lawrenceburg with nine points on three 3-pointers.

After picking up 53 wins as the head boys basketball coach at Switzerland County, Tuesday's win was the first for Dennis as the girls coach at Madison. He now takes his new team into his old school as the Cubs travel to Switzerland on Friday.

"It's a tough environment to play and we went there two years ago with Jade (Nutley), they gave us all we could handle," Dennis said. "So we're happy to spend the next two days getting ready for them and hopefully I'll get to watch them on film a little bit tomorrow and get ready for that game. (Coach) Brooke (Todd) does a really good job with her kids and we know that they're gonna play hard and we're gonna have to match that and see what happens."

BASKETBALL ROUNDUP

Shawe pulls away in 2nd half to post 1st win over JCD in 14 years

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Shawe used a big second half to post its first win over Jac-Cen-Del in 14 years, 52-43 at home on Tuesday.

The Hilltoppers managed only 13 points in the first half but responded with 39 points over the final two quarters. Coupled with a strong defense, it was enough to knock off the 10th-ranked Eagles for the first time since 2008, when they were ranked second in the state.

"I couldn't be more proud of their effort, and like I told them before the game, this is a game where good teams find a way to win," Shawe coach Drew Kring said. "We have a lot to improve, but the effort and ability to make plays down the stretch put us over the top."

Shawe scored 11 points in the first quarter and only two in the second but trailed only 15-13 at halftime thanks to its strong defensive play. Freshman Audrey Barron scored nine points in the third quarter and the Hilltoppers hit four 3-pointers in that frame as they roared ahead 37-31. Shawe then held on the fourth for the win.

"We played a great team game, getting 44 points from Allison Knoebel (18), Audrey Barron (15) and Ava Turner (11)," Kring said. "Even though the three led us in scoring, Hunter Mote played a great game handling the ball and allowing those three to go do what they do. As long as she handles the pressure, we are able to be pretty good. Yolett (Perez) played great defense on their best player and made it difficult all night for her to score."

Shawe, 2-2 overall and 1-0 Ohio River Valley Conference, is at Providence on Saturday and heads to Hauser next Tuesday.

PACERS BEAT DEARBORN

Switzerland County shrugged off a slow start to beat South Dearborn 50-43 Tuesday at home in the Pacers' girls basketball season opener.

Switzerland trailed 18-17 at halftime and were down five in third quarter before rallying for the win.

Halle Archer led three Swiss players in double figures with 13 points while Bri Stow scored 12 and Courtney Higgins had 10 points and seven rebounds. Macy Collier added seven points and six rebounds.

Switzerland, now 1-0, hosts Madison on Friday and heads to Henryville on Saturday.

Colts' Saturday hiring chided on diversity, fairness grounds

BY ROB MAADDI
AP PRO FOOTBALL WRITER

Even Jeff Saturday was shocked when Indianapolis Colts owner Jim Irsay called late Sunday night to offer him the head coaching position.

A former two-time All-Pro center who snapped the ball to Hall of Fame quarterback Peyton Manning for 12 seasons, Saturday surely knows his X's and O's.

But the TV analyst's only coaching experience was a three-year stint at Hebron Christian Academy in Georgia, where he led the team to a 20-16 record with three playoff appearances.

Critics immediately went after Colts owner Jim Irsay for hiring an inexperienced former player instead of elevating someone from the coaching staff, which is typical during in-season firings. Colts defensive coordinator Gus Bradley previously served as a head coach in Jacksonville from 2013-16. Senior defensive assistant John Fox spent 16 seasons as head coach in Carolina, Denver and Chicago, and led the Panthers and Broncos to Super Bowl appearances.

Irsay's decision stunned people internally and around the league, though his affinity for Saturday was known throughout the organization. Saturday played 13 seasons for the Colts, made the Pro Bowl six times, helped them win a Super Bowl and is a member of the team's Ring of Honor.

Critics immediately went after Irsay for hiring an inexperienced former player instead of elevating someone from the coaching staff, which is typical during in-season firings. Colts defensive coordinator Gus Bradley previously served as a head coach in Jacksonville from 2013-16.

Senior defensive assistant John Fox spent 16 seasons as head coach in Carolina, Denver and Chicago, and led the Panthers and Broncos to Super Bowl appearances.

Former NFL quarterback and current ESPN analyst Robert Griffin III called Irsay's decision "a head-scratching slap in the face to every coach on that staff" in a post on Twitter.

Saturday's hiring also didn't sit well with the Fritz Pollard Alliance, which fights for equity and inclusion in pro football. The NFL has seven minority head coaches, including Carolina Panthers interim coach Steve Wilks.

"The Rooney Rule is the only universal hiring policy used by the NFL to promote fairness and diversity," The Alliance said in a statement. "However, (Monday's) news in Indianapolis illuminated a gap in the league's stated objective. If the spirit of the rule is to expand opportunities, we believe that it must be consistently applied, even in the hiring of interim positions."

Irsay and the Colts didn't have to follow the Rooney Rule requirements for interviewing minority candidates because Saturday replaced Frank Reich during the season.

The team will have to fulfill those requirements after the season when seeking a permanent hire.

"We're following the Rooney Rule to a 'T.' I really look forward to the interview process at the end of the season," Irsay said.

This wasn't the first time Irsay went after Saturday, who is a paid consultant for the team and was working as an analyst at ESPN.

"Now understand, we've tried to hire Jeff a couple times," Colts general manager Chris Ballard said. "We tried to hire him in 2019 as the offensive line coach and we tried to hire him again this year —

Saturday faces daunting task in preparing Colts for Raiders

BY MICHAEL MAROT

INDIANAPOLIS — Indianapolis Colts interim coach Jeff Saturday faces a daunting task this week.

First, he must select a play-caller. Then he must map out a game plan, figure out what's wrong with the offense, try to fix a struggling offensive line and beat Las Vegas on the road.

It's a lot to ask of someone who spent more time in the broadcast studio than on the sideline recently, but Colts owner Jim Irsay believes Saturday can win on Sundays.

"I feel fully capable, I'm excited about the opportunity — eight games," Saturday said at his introductory news conference. "Here's the great part about my career, I came in and nobody expected anything. I'm here and no one expects anything. If it goes well, hopefully it will go extremely well, but I have no preconceived notion I'm going to be some spectacular anything."

Fortunately, for the Colts, he's not completely unfamiliar with this team.

Saturday has served as a team consultant, kept close ties to the franchise and even considered joining Indy's coaching staff twice in the past four years. Things just didn't work out previously, general manager Chris Ballard said.

In fact, he was swinging the anvil at Lucas Oil Stadium on Oct. 30, wearing Tarik Glenn's No. 78 jersey as the longtime left tackle joined Saturday in the team's Ring of Honor.

Now, though, it's a mad scramble following the unusual move to hire someone, even on an interim basis, with no coaching experience at the pro or college level. Saturday's lone coaching gig was a four-year tenure as head coach of a Georgia high school, a job that ended in 2020.

The fact Indy (3-5-1) remains in the playoff hunt and doesn't have a bye for another month only complicates matters.

Saturday must make coaching decisions, personnel decisions and game-planning decisions almost instantly, given the schedule. Still, Irsay and Ballard are convinced Saturday can win.

"He's the best man for the job, there's no question about it in my mind," Irsay said, explaining why he made his first midseason firing in the quarter-century he's been the team owner. "There's no other mystery behind it. First, he's extremely tough and he's a leader. When you're looking for head coaches, leadership's the No. 1 thing."

Irsay didn't need an interview, either, because he knows Saturday and his story so well.

He was cut as an undrafted rookie by the Baltimore Ravens in 1998 then spent the next year working in a North Carolina electrical supply store, hoping an NFL team would give him another chance.

Indy signed him in 1999 and under the guidance of late offensive line coach Howard Mudd, Saturday blossomed into Peyton Manning's trusted center.

He was a two-time All-Pro, made six Pro Bowls, won a Super Bowl and became almost inseparable from the Hall of Fame quarterback despite an occasional sideline spat. And he, along with Colts assistant offensive line coach Kevin Mawae, teamed up to help the NFLPA and owners reach a settlement to end the 2011 NFL lockout.

"Jeff's made of the right stuff, he was the ultimate teammate," Manning said on ESPN. "He's a high-character guy. He's a great leader. He's going to have to rely on these players to kind of get him comfortable and try and get a win there in Indianapolis. A win there could solve a lot of things."

But winning has become incredibly complex in Indy.

Two weeks ago, the now-fired coach Frank Reich benched longtime veteran Matt Ryan in favor of second-year quarterback Sam Ehlinger. Last week, Reich fired offensive coordinator Marcus Brady even though Reich called the plays since his hiring in 2018. Reich also had been mixing and matching offensive line groupings trying to find something, anything that would work.

The result: Indy is scoring a league-low 14.7 points, shares the league lead with 17 giveaways and has allowed a league-high 35 sacks.

Saturday knows that can't continue if the Colts intend to win.

So he wasted no time clearing up two questions Monday night — Ehlinger will continue to be the starter at QB and rookie Bernhard Raimann will be Indy's starting left tackle.

Everything else could change except Saturday's mission.

Bengals 'in a good place' at midpoint but seek consistency

BY MITCH STACY
ASSOCIATED PRESS

CINCINNATI — The Cincinnati Bengals moved one game above .500 before their bye week and, despite some significant injuries, are feeling pretty good about themselves.

The Bengals improved to 5-4 with a 42-21 win over Carolina on Sunday that was a more thorough beating than the score indicated. They did it without their best receiver, Ja'Marr Chase, and their top cornerback, Chidobe Awuzie, both of whom are injured.

Some perspective: Cincinnati stood at 5-4 after nine games last season, went 5-3 the rest of the way and then embarked on a memorable playoff run that run that took the Bengals to the Super Bowl for the first time in 33 years.

Despite some maddening inconsistency, the Bengals know everything they want is still well within their reach, especially when they have ultra-confident quarterback Joe Burrow running the offense.

"I think our guys are in a good place right now," coach Zac Taylor said.

WHAT'S WORKING

Suddenly, the run game. The overhauled offensive line has been criticized for failing to open holes for Cincinnati's running backs, not to mention provide better protection for Burrow. The Bengals' failure to establish the run had limited Joe Mixon's role. After an embarrassing Monday night loss at Cleveland, the Bengals scored early and often against Carolina, with Mixon rushing for 153 yards and four touchdowns, his first 100-yard effort of the season. Burrow called it the team's most complete game of the season.

"You'd love to do exactly what we did (Sunday)," Burrow said. "We're running the ball, we're play action, and we're dropping back, throwing screens. When you're multiple like that, it's tough to stop."

WHAT NEEDS HELP

Cincinnati is going to need more consistency. Its first three losses came by a total of eight points. The Monday night 32-13 rout by the Browns was difficult to explain, and it was bookended by dominant wins over the Falcons and Panthers.

"We have to find wins, scrape them out any way we can," Burrow said. "Not every day will be like (the Panthers win), so we have to find ways to win games down the stretch, where it's not perfect but you find a way to win."

STOCK UP

Mixon topped 100 yards for the first time since he ran for a career-high 165 against Pittsburgh last Nov. 28.

His five touchdowns — four rushing, one receiving — was a franchise record.

Honorable mention to the offensive line.

"I'm just happy that I rose to the occasion," the sixth-year back said. " My game rose, I'm here in this position, and I never take it for granted."

STOCK DOWN

First-round draft pick Dax Hill was forced into action because the Bengals are so thin at cornerback. He was in coverage when Carolina scored its first touchdown Sunday and then left with a shoulder injury. It's not clear how long he will be out.

INJURIES

Awuzie (knee) landed on injured reserve. ... Chase (hip) wasn't put on the injured list but it's not clear when he'll be able to play. ... RB Chris Evans left Sunday's game with a knee injury. ... CBs Mike Hilton and Tre Flowers also were out Sunday with injuries.

KEY NUMBER

464 — Yards gained by the Cincinnati offense last Sunday, a season high.

NEXT STEPS

The Bengals have plenty of positive vibes going into their off week, which will provide some extra healing time for those who are a little bit banged up.

They play at Pittsburgh on Nov. 20. Cincinnati went 0-3 against AFC North opponents in the first half, including a Week 1 loss to the Steelers — who've only won one game since.

CHIDED

just didn't work out. The timing didn't work out. I spent a lot of time with Jeff — like I have with a few of the ex-players here, and it doesn't take long to figure out that he's got real leadership in him, real special in that regard. For this eight-game stretch and where we're at, we thought he was going to be a really good fit for us."

The Colts (3-5-1) are headed nowhere and Matt Ryan's benching for inexperienced and overwhelmed quarterback Sam Ehlinger indicates the team has prioritized draft positioning. Reich began each of his five seasons in Indianapolis with a different quarterback, so ensuring a top draft pick to select a potential franchise QB would be a wise strategy.

That leaves Saturday in a can't-lose position.

If he somehow finds a way to lead the Colts to a winning record or even a 4-4 mark over the last eight games, it would be quite an achievement given the state of the team.

If the Colts lose enough games to end up with one of the top QBs in the draft, Saturday would have helped set the team up for potential future success.

Irsay made a bold, outside-the-box move that opened him up for scrutiny and criticism. It's clear he doesn't care about public perception.

Meditation talker is guided toward the exit

AMY DICKINSON
ASK AMY

Dear Amy: I recently joined a meditation group that has sessions both in-person and online.

During an online session, I put a note in the chat saying that everyone could go and look at the full moon after the session.

The group leader became irate. He said aloud to the group that I was distracting and that no one should read what was in the chat.

I found that odd because if he did not want it, he could have disabled the chat function in Zoom.

At the end of the meeting, I told everyone that I hoped they enjoyed looking at the beautiful full moon and signed off.

The teacher contacted me after the session and said that I had been disruptive.

He suggested that I find a different group.

Before this incident, I privately asked him to stop saying unkind things about his ex-girlfriend behind her back on a public newsletter that was distributed to his subscribers. I said that I did not know this woman and did not think it was fair for him to share personal details about her online.

I think that request might have made him bristle toward me.

I had hoped to make friends there. Do you have any suggestions?

— Stargazer

Dear Stargazer: I don't have any personal experience with meditation groups, but when there is a leader who has organized and is offering what sounds like a guided meditation, participants should not weigh in verbally or textually unless invited.

Using the online "chat" function, you made a benign comment directed to the group, but if you had made this comment verbally during an in-person class, the group leader would likely have asked you not to speak.

You don't seem to want to meditate. You want to communicate. There's nothing wrong with that, unless you are trying to do so during a group meditation.

Reformed criminal now being blackmailed

AMY DICKINSON
ASK AMY

Dear Amy: Over 40 years ago, I committed a significant crime.

No one was physically hurt, but I scared the devil out of a small group of people.

My wife knew and begged me not to do it, but I felt I had no other choice.

My wife benefited from the proceeds of the crime and willingly spent the proceeds. I was never caught.

Over the last 10 years, however, when she is very angry at me or is trying to force me to do something she wants me to do, she threatens to tell my adult children and our grandchildren about, "the kind of man you really are."

Sometimes she says she will tell the whole story to the family in her own way after I am dead.

I have never repeated any unlawful acts in all the time since and have shared a good life and, I believe, have made a positive contribution to many people through my work.

I have considered telling my children as truthfully and factually as I can, and have written and rewritten my confession many times to share with them.

Do you see any other way? If my wife finally tells this story, it will be embroidered with her perspective and 40-plus years of whatever she wants to bring to the story. Her temper is legendary.

What do you think I should do?

— Reformed

Dear Reformed: I think you should meet with a lawyer, deliver a full and accurate account of what you did, and discuss your options, including admitting this crime and making restitution to the victims or institution you harmed. (The statute of limitations for you to be prosecuted likely ran out decades ago.)

And then — yes — you should tell your family about this. Doing so will remove this episode from your wife's bag of tricks.

And then you should ask for their forgiveness.

ASTROLOGY

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — Wait for the good news. There might be some gloom and a chill in the air, but you might find a reason to be glad. Loved ones can be more demonstrative and affectionate after work and home duties are completed.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — Patience paves a safer path. Sometimes you are merely a cog in the wheel and will not receive the attention you may crave, and other times it's your turn to shine. Fighting change or focusing on mistakes will not Be constructive.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — You might be grasping for straws to attain more security. Conflicts can eventually subside if you refuse to lose your temper even when provoked. Bottled up resentments should not be shaken now or they may explode.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — Work hand in hand with an ambitious and conscientious partner. Check out the bank balance and make sure you are in the black — there could be extra bills on their way. Focus on plans for upcoming family fun.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — Try not to make crucial decisions or changes. Someone may become frustrated if you attempt to take charge or call the shots. You may not be pleased with results if you insist on absolute obedience to a rule.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — Moderation in all things should be your objective now. Be respectful toward authority figures and avoid useless controversies as they're unlikely to resolve yet. Put important documents and contracts on the back burner for now.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) — Time is on your side. If you are patient, some joy and comfort may appear just around the corner. Set reasonable spending limits and don't let a chip on someone's shoulder disrupt your own sense of well-being.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) — Bad feelings can linger if you express your resentments now. You might be saddled with extra responsibilities, but don't volunteer for them. Your social skills may be enhanced, helping you get along with important people.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) — Bad news is unlikely to land well right now, wait for a better opening to face a tough situation. Avoid any appearance of plotting or scheming because even with the best intentions, someone might question your motives.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — Your caution or hesitation might be founded on unpleasant past experiences — ask yourself whether the situations are parallel. Refuse to consider investment opportunities and delay major expenditures until you feel more secure.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) — Ignoring the rules can create costly mistakes. There are some things that are beyond your control. Right now, it is important to honor your past commitments and sidestep taking on new obligations.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) — It's not always possible to get what you want exactly when you want it. Do your best to get the support you want but be patient if someone is not ready. Avoid misunderstandings by adopting a positive attitude.

ASTROLOGY

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — Accept that there are limits to most situations. Your enthusiasm for fun-filled social interactions could make you less discriminating about your choice of companions. Enjoy working and playing with others.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — Let your warmth and passion show in private settings, but you may find it expedient to be discreet in group gatherings. A nice sprinkling of diplomacy and thoughtful gestures could prevent a misunderstanding.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — A review of the facts could improve confidence. Don't give up yet if you are entangled in an emotionally draining situation. Shore up your strength in case someone toys with your emotions or tries to play on your sympathies.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — Don't try to make up lost time by hurrying through your tasks. Be aware that people under pressure may be grouchy when disturbed. You and a loved one should be able to see your hard work reflected in security and success.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — The trip uphill takes more effort than the journey downhill. Once the worst is over, you can let go of some concerns. Your commitment to a project or a job might not seem to be fully appreciated by a partner or loved one.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — Work out with a partner to blow off excess steam. Physical exercise can clear your head, alleviate frustrations and help you sleep better. Self-care is the way you actually walk your talk about loving yourself.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) — You or your favorite romantic playmate may be feeling adventurous and considering taking a detour, but don't break any commitments you've made. Actively participate in a sport where a loved one can work off competitive urges.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) — Count to 10 before you react with angry words. You may want to control certain situations, but you won't be able to micromanage every single detail. Focus on displaying your warmth affection for loved ones.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) — Tense situations can improve with empathy. Recognize someone's defensiveness as simple anxiety. Put your own energy to good use by following through on domestic chores. Take someone along on errands.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — This is a good day to be well organized. A complicated schedule might require applying some logistics to make it run more smoothly and efficiently. Keep your savings account closed for business this weekend.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) — Get out ahead of it. Look for instances when a small amount of effort will prevent extra work and future irritations. You will have fewer problems if you learn to delegate authority and share the responsibilities.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) — You may yearn for peace and harmony and could prefer to avoid noisy crowds, disruptive situations or abrasive family members. Learn from the past and work in the present to live your best life in the future.

No. 13 Hoosiers rout Morehead State 88-53 in season opener

BY MICHAEL MAROT
ASSOCIATED PRESS

BLOOMINGTON — Indiana star Trayce Jackson-Davis looked even better than his old self. Malik Reneau made a splash in his college debut.

Together, the preseason All-American and the highly touted freshman were quite a combination. Each scored 15 points in limited minutes and helped lead the 13th-ranked Hoosiers to an 88-53 win over Morehead State in the opener for both teams.

"He's been solid ever since he put on the uniform," coach Mike Woodson said of Reneau. "It's kind of nice to see."

What Hoosiers fans saw was a team that lived up to its billing as the Big Ten's preseason favorite — especially as they dominated the final 30 minutes.

Jackson-Davis and Reneau helped Indiana's bigger, stronger and deeper roster control the middle where they had a 52-18 scoring advantage. They also helped them regain the upper hand on rebounding.

It was good enough to give the Hoosiers a sixth consecutive win in this series as they improved to 26-0 all-time against Ohio Valley Conference foes. Mark Freeman led the Eagles with 14 points, and Drew Thelwell had 11 for the team that entered this season as the OVC favorite.

For a while, it looked as if Morehead State would make the game interesting. Freeman's four-point play midway through the first half tied the score at 21. But then the Hoosiers responded in decisive fashion, and the Eagles had no answers.

"They are very good at protecting the paint and keeping the opponent out of it," coach Preston Spradlin said. "They've got a really dynamic team with their size and their athleticism, their ability to post the ball and play off the bounce."

Indiana scored 13 straight points during a 20-4 run, which made it 41-29 at halftime.

Then the Hoosiers scored the first six in the second half, extending the margin to 18 and allowing them to steadily pull away.

BIG PICTURE

Morehead State: The Eagles have played ranked foes in three straight season openers and were no match against these Hoosiers. With only four returnees and 11 newcomers on this season's roster it may take Spradlin time to figure out how to piece things together, but better days are ahead.

Indiana: After a solid start, the Hoosiers went into the kind of lull that drives coaches crazy. But the fact they rebounded quickly — and thoroughly — should be a promising sign for Woodson and Indiana's hungry fan base. The next goal should be to string together a full 40 minutes.

Reeves, Fredrick lead No. 4 Kentucky past Howard 95-63

BY GARY B. GRAVES
ASSOCIATED PRESS

LEXINGTON, Ky. — Antonio Reeves scored 22 points, CJ Fredrick had 20 and Kentucky opened the season by beating Howard 95-63 on Monday night with All-American Oscar Tshiebwe and two other players sidelined.

Tshiebwe, the consensus national player of the year, had a procedure last month on his right knee and anticipated being back for the opener. But other than some pregame stretching and receiving his Naismith Trophy — one of six awards he collected last spring along with being named Associated Press player of the year — he was a bystander and cheerleader.

Point guard Sahvir Wheeler (right leg) and sophomore forward Daimion Collins (death in family) were also out, leaving the Wildcats with eight scholarship players. They still shot 55% against the overmatched Bison.

Reeves, an Illinois State transfer who averaged 20.1 points per game last season for the Redbirds, hit 6 of 12 from 3-point range and 8 of 16 overall. Fredrick, who transferred from Iowa but missed last season with a hamstring injury, shot 6 of 9 overall and 2 of 5 from beyond the arc.

"Chemistry was definitely out there," Reeves said. "We all moved the ball pretty well. (We) ran the floor pretty well — rebounded and got a couple of assists through there. I think the whole team had a great game today and we just have to move on to the next game."

Madison Theatre dress rehearsed a circus scene for the musical "Big Fish" that will be staged at Madison Consolidated High School's Opal Sherman Auditorium on Friday and Saturday.

Madison Theatre to stage 'Big Fish'

BY BOB DEMAREE

The musical production of "Big Fish" by Madison Theatre will bring the bigger-than-life story of Edward Bloom to the stage of Madison Consolidated High School's Opal Sherman Auditorium on Friday and Saturday at 7 p.m. and Saturday and Sunday at 2:30 p.m.

Saba Chabukashvili plays the role of Edward, whose larger-than-life stories thrill most everyone around him with the exception of his son, Will, who is determined to find the truth behind his father's epic tales. Karson Couch plays Will while Izzy Jetts plays Edward's wife, Sandra.

The musical, "Big Fish," is based on the novel by Daniel Wallace and the film directed by Tim Burton.

Chabukashvili said his character, Edward, has told stories of his life to Will, but his son "doesn't know if they're real or not because they are very exaggerated so Will doesn't feel he knows his father very well."

Jett said Sandra and Will go through written materials about Edward's life, and try to determine if any of that makes sense as Will prepares to have a son of his own. "It doesn't help that Will is very logical, and Edward is telling very illogical stories, and it doesn't sit well with him," said Couch. "He doesn't want his son to grow up like he did not knowing what's real and what's not."

Jett said the story is one that provides "life lessons for generations to come."

Both Chabukashvili and Couch are MCHS juniors who were in preschool together, so it might seem awkward for Chabukashvili to be playing Couch's father in the musical.

But Chabukashvili said it's just part of acting. "It's not that weird. We were just given the roles and it's just acting," he said, noting costumes are used to help distinguish the age of Chabukashvili as he performs Edward, and also for Jett as she performs Sandra.

During the COVID-19 pandemic, double casting has been done for performances to cover characters in the event of illness, but "Big Fish" moves away from that with each role played by one actor. Chabukashvili doesn't anticipate that being an issue in that prior to the pandemic "we've all had experience in performing all the shows."

And even as they were sharing roles, they were performed in another way in the other performance. "Even when there was double casting, we would be in the chorus and cast in another role," he said.

Other performers include Kolton Lock as Young Will and Will's son, Grady McDarment as the frustrated fisherman, Jack Heckler as Don Price and Red Fang, Cooper Chandler as Zacky Price, Emma Reilmann at Dr. Bennett, Sophie Guirguis at the Mayor, Aayush Lad as the sharecropper, Sophia Bentz as the shepherd, Preston Kuppler as Karl the Giant and the General, Tyler Hook as Amos Calloway, Zoe Bullock as the witch, Mia Mires as Josephine, Chelsea Dattilo as Jenny Hill, Jasmine Peczynski as the mermaid, Lilly Guirguis as the school teacher, Fiona Magrath as the little girl with cat, Haleigh Pyles as girl 1, Andie Royce as girl 2 and Avery Clayton as the over-excited scout.

Tickets are available online at madisontheatrein.com with cost $15 for adults and $5 for students.

Tickets at the door are $17 for adults and $7 for students. Adult tickets are $5 off for matinee shows.

MPD Chief Wallace elected to school board

BY BOB DEMAREE

The Madison Consolidated Schools Board of Trustees will have two new members next year while Southwestern Jefferson County Board of Trustees incumbents held off challenges there.

Madison Police Chief John Wallace joined incumbent Jodi Yancey in winning the District 2 race for Madison school board, where the top two vote-getters are elected. Yancey led voting with 3,446 votes while Wallace had 3,274 to finish ahead of incumbent Lori Slygh with 2,442 votes and Zackery Shelton with 2,143.

Michael Scott, running unopposed in District 3, received 4,581 votes and will also begin a new four-year term in January along Yancey and Wallace.

"I'm very much looking forward to serving," said Wallace, noting that "at the end of the day we want to do what's best for our school and especially our children." Wallace said his experience in law enforcement provides a "unique perspective on the community as a whole," and he wants "to keep moving our community forward. We have got a lot of great things going on" and the school system is a valuable part of that. "If people are looking to move here, they're wanting to know what kind of school system we have. I'm looking forward to working with the current members, and keep Madison moving."

At Southwestern, all three incumbents faced challenges. All three held on for victories but the race for Hanover Township seat was very close as incumbent John Jones won by just 15 votes over challenger Zac Leach 1,007 to 992. In the Smyrna Township race, incumbent Lacie Deputy claimed a 70-vote win over challenger Greg Schneider 1,065 to 995. Meanwhile, the Saluda Township race for school board saw incumbent Rick Stockdale easily defeat challenger Joyce Consley 1,156 to 791.

Commissioners move toward dissolving animal shelter board

Local veterinarians to provide oversight

BY BOB DEMAREE

With plans to restructure management of the Jefferson County Animal Shelter, Dr. Joy Barron gave an update at last Thursday's meeting of the County Commissioners that included the first reading of an ordinance to dissolve the Animal Shelter Advisory Board.

Barron said she talked to all veterinary clinics in Madison — a total of four — and all have agreed to a schedule of availability of appointments to see sick animals at the shelter. Beginning this month, there will be preliminary schedules for a weekly walk-through of the shelter by staff of local veterinary clinics. Barron said she has been doing the walk-through herself weekly for the last three weeks.

"Things are going well," she said. "All of the preventative care is being done as it should, and sanitation and cleaning is all going as it should." When Barron was at the shelter on Wednesday, she said, "I am happy to announce there are only six cats in the sick room. We have not had any new illness since we put in place the new directives."

She also said an agreement is being negotiated on pricing for spay/neuter services for shelter animals through the local clinics.

The first reading of an ordinance to the dissolve the Animal Shelter Advisory Board was held by Commissioners President Ron Lee.

The decision to do that was made at a joint meeting between the Commissioners and the shelter advisory board on Oct. 14.

An interlocal agreement adopted Dec. 5, 2006, had established the advisory board, and the new ordinance that dissolves that board establishes another ordinance be adopted to create the veterinary oversight board, and the Commissioners will have supervision of the animal until that advisory board is formed.
